

The Phuket Weed Guide 2024

Welcome to your ultimate Phuket Weed Guide 2024.

Whether you're a first-timer, a medical user, or just looking to enjoy some good bud on your tropical getaway, we've got you covered.

Buckle up as we take you on a journey through Phuket's thriving cannabis scene.

First things first, let's talk about how we got here.

Cannabis in Thailand has had quite the rollercoaster ride over the years.

Back in the day, it was a pretty common sight in traditional Thai medicine and even popped up in some local dishes.

But then, like a lot of places around the world, Thailand decided to crack down on drugs in the 20th century.

Cannabis got the short end of the stick and was banned in 1935.

Fast forward to 1979, and things got even stricter with the Narcotics Act.

Cannabis was labeled a Category 5 narcotic, which basically meant bad news if you got caught with it.

But hey, times change, right?

In 2018, Thailand shocked everyone by becoming the first Southeast Asian country to give medical cannabis the green light. Talk about a plot twist!

But the real game-changer came in 2022.

That's when Thailand went all in and decriminalized cannabis, taking it off the naughty list of Category 5 narcotics.

It was like someone flipped a switch, and suddenly, the land of smiles became the land of green.

Now, in Phuket Weed Guide 2024, cannabis is legal in Thailand for both medical and recreational use.

But before you start planning a smoke-fest on the beach, there are a few rules you need to know.

First off, you've got to be 20 or older to buy and use cannabis legally.

Sorry, youngsters!

Also, lighting up in public is a big no-no and could land you a fine. So keep it private, folks.

There are also some rules about potency.

Anything with more than 0.2% THC by weight is considered a controlled herb.

But don't worry, there's still plenty of good stuff to go around.

Oh, and if you're feeling ambitious, you can even grow your own at home.

Just make sure to register with the government through their mobile app first.

Now, let's talk about Phuket specifically.

This island has really embraced the whole cannabis thing.

It's like the Hawaii of Thailand when it comes to weed.

You'll find dispensaries all over the place, selling everything from local strains to imported favorites.

And it's not just about buying weed – there are cannabis-friendly cafes, restaurants, and even hotels popping up everywhere.

One cool thing about Phuket is the local cannabis scene.

Thai growers have been busy creating some unique strains that blend old-school Thai varieties with popular international ones.

It's like a delicious East-meets-West kind of deal for your taste buds (and your brain).

If you're into events, you're in luck.

Phuket hosts all sorts of cannabis-related shindigs throughout the year.

We're talking educational seminars, product expos, and even full-on festivals.

It's a great way to learn more about cannabis and meet some like-minded folks.

For those of you looking at cannabis from a medical perspective, Phuket's got you covered too.

There are specialized clinics where you can get consultations and prescriptions for medical cannabis.

And if you want to dive deeper into the world of Thai cannabis, there are companies offering tours of local farms, dispensaries, and other weed-friendly spots.

It's like a wine tour, but way more chill.

One thing to keep in mind is that Thailand takes quality control seriously.

The Thai FDA has put some pretty strict measures in place to make sure that the cannabis products sold in Phuket are safe and up to standard.

So you can relax knowing you're getting the good stuff.

All this cannabis action has been great for Phuket's economy too.

It's created a bunch of jobs and brought in a lot of investment.

Who knew weed could be such a boost for the local economy?

Now, we know it's exciting, but remember to keep it cool and respect the local laws and customs.

Cannabis might be legal, but that doesn't mean it's a free-for-all.

Use responsibly, and you'll have a much better time.

So there you have it – your intro to the world of cannabis in Phuket for 2024.

We've got a lot more ground to cover, so stick around as we dive into the types of cannabis you can find here, where to buy it, how to use it safely, and a whole lot more.

This is going to be one heck of a green adventure!

Phuket Weed Guide 2024: Strains, Products, and Consumption Methods

Now that we've covered the basics of Phuket's weed scene, let's dive into the good stuff – the cannabis itself.

Whether you're a seasoned smoker or a total newbie, understanding the different types of cannabis, popular strains, and various products available can really enhance your experience.

So, let's break it down!

First up, let's talk about the different types of cannabis.

You've probably heard people throw around terms like Indica, Sativa, and Hybrid.

But what do they actually mean?

Well, think of it like this:

- Indica strains are like your chill-out buddy. They're known for giving you a relaxed, body-heavy high. People often use Indica strains to unwind after a long day, help with sleep, or ease pain. If you're looking to melt into your couch and binge-watch some Thai dramas, Indica might be your go-to.
- Sativas, on the other hand, are more like your energetic friend who's always up for an adventure. These strains typically give you a more uplifting, cerebral high. They can boost creativity, increase focus, and even help with mood. If you're planning a day of exploring Phuket's beautiful beaches or want to get chatty at a local night market, a Sativa could be just the ticket.
- Now, Hybrids are exactly what they sound like – a mix of Indica and Sativa. They can lean more towards one side or the other, or be a pretty even balance. Hybrids are great because they often give you the best of both worlds.

When it comes to popular strains in Phuket, you're in for a treat.

The local growers have been busy creating some unique Thai strains that are definitely worth trying.

Here are a few you might come across:

1. Thai Stick: This legendary strain is making a comeback. It's a pure Sativa that's known for its potent, energetic high and sweet, citrusy flavor.
2. Phuket Dream: A hybrid strain that's gaining popularity for its balanced effects and tropical fruit aroma.

3. Mango Haze: Another hybrid that's perfect for a day at the beach. It's got a sweet mango flavor and gives a happy, uplifting high.
4. Blue Thai: An Indica-dominant strain that's great for relaxation. It's got a berry flavor with a hint of earthiness.

Of course, you'll also find plenty of international favorites like OG Kush (<https://www.patong-cannabis.com/og-kush-strain-cannabis-legend/>), Girl Scout Cookies (<https://www.patong-cannabis.com/charming-girl-scout-cookies-strain/>), and Northern Lights (<https://www.patong-cannabis.com/northern-lights-strain-powerful-indica/>) in many Phuket dispensaries like Phuket Cannabis Patong (<https://www.patong-cannabis.com/thaiger-ganja-gallery-award/>).

Now, let's talk about the different cannabis products you might encounter.

It's not all about smoking joints anymore (though that's still a popular option).

Here's a rundown of what you might find:

1. Flower: This is your traditional bud, the dried and cured cannabis flower. It's versatile and can be smoked in a joint, pipe, or bong.
2. Edibles: From gummies to chocolates to full-on cannabis-infused meals, edibles are a discreet and tasty way to consume cannabis. Just remember, the effects can take longer to kick in and last longer than smoking, so start low and go slow!
3. Concentrates: These are highly potent cannabis extracts. They come in forms like wax, shatter, and oil, and are usually vaporized or 'dabbed'. Not for the faint of heart or cannabis newbies!
4. Tinctures: These are liquid cannabis extracts that you can drop under your tongue or add to food and drinks. They're popular among medical users for their precise dosing.
5. Topicals: These are cannabis-infused lotions, balms, and oils that are applied directly to the skin. They're great for localized pain relief without the psychoactive effects.
6. Pre-rolls: For those who don't want to bother with rolling their own joints, pre-rolls are ready-to-go and often come in fun flavor combinations.

When it comes to consumption methods, you've got options:

1. Smoking: The classic method. Whether it's a joint, blunt, pipe, or bong, smoking gives you quick effects but can be harsh on the lungs.
2. Vaping: A popular alternative to smoking, vaping heats the cannabis without burning it, producing vapor instead of smoke. Many find it smoother on the throat and lungs.
3. Edibles: As mentioned earlier, these are eaten or drunk. The effects take longer to kick in but can last much longer than smoking or vaping.

4. Sublingual: This involves placing tinctures or oils under your tongue for quick absorption into the bloodstream.
5. Topical: Applied directly to the skin, this method is great for targeting specific areas for pain relief or skincare.

Each method has its own onset time and duration of effects, so it's worth experimenting (responsibly, of course) to find what works best for you.

Remember, everyone's body reacts differently to cannabis.

What works for your buddy might hit you differently.

It's always best to start with a low dose, especially if you're trying a new strain or consumption method, and work your way up slowly.

And there you have it – your crash course in cannabis strains, products, and consumption methods!

Armed with this knowledge, you're ready to explore Phuket's cannabis scene like a pro.

In our next section in the Phuket Weed Guide 2024, we'll guide you through buying cannabis in Phuket, so stick around!

Phuket Weed Guide 2024: Buying Cannabis in Phuket

Alright, now that you're all clued up on the different types of cannabis and products available, let's talk about how to get your hands on some of that sweet Mary Jane in Phuket.

Don't worry, it's not as complicated as you might think, but there are a few things you'll want to keep in mind to ensure you're staying on the right side of the law and getting quality product.

First things first, where can you buy weed in Phuket?

The good news is, in 2024, you've got plenty of options.

Licensed dispensaries have been popping up all over the island like mushrooms after a rainy season.

You'll find them in popular tourist areas like Patong, Kata, and Karon, as well as in Phuket Town.

Some of the more well-known dispensaries include "Green Phucket" (see what they did there?), "Canna Cabana", and "Thai High".

But new spots are opening all the time, so keep your eyes peeled as you explore the island.

Now, what should you expect when you visit a dispensary?

Well, it's not like buying beer from a 7-Eleven, that's for sure.

Here's a quick rundown:

1. ID Check: First off, you'll need to show a valid ID to prove you're over 20. No ID, no weed, no exceptions.
2. Budtenders: Once you're in, you'll be greeted by a budtender. These folks are like the sommeliers of the cannabis world. They're there to answer your questions and help you find the right product.
3. Product Selection: Most dispensaries have their products displayed in glass cases. You can usually smell the different strains (often in little jars with holes in the lid), but you typically can't handle the product until you've bought it.
4. Payment: Many dispensaries are cash-only, so it's a good idea to hit up an ATM before you go. Some places are starting to accept card payments and even cryptocurrencies, but cash is still king in most spots.

5. Consumption: Remember, you can't consume on-site at most dispensaries.

They'll usually provide you with smell-proof bags to take your goodies home (or back to your hotel) discreetly.

Now, let's talk prices.

How much you'll pay for weed in Phuket can vary quite a bit depending on the quality, strain, and where you're buying from.

As a rough guide:

- A gram of decent bud might set you back anywhere from 500 to 1000 baht.
- Pre-rolls often go for 300-600 baht each.
- Edibles can range from 200 baht for a simple gummy to 1000+ baht for more elaborate treats.
- Concentrates and high-end products can get pretty pricey, sometimes 2000 baht or more per gram.

Remember, cheaper isn't always better when it comes to cannabis.

It's often worth paying a bit more for quality product from a reputable dispensary.

Speaking of quality, how can you tell if you're getting the good stuff?

Here are a few tips:

1. Look: Good quality bud should be green (though exact shades can vary) with perhaps some orange hairs and a coating of trichomes (tiny crystals). Avoid anything that looks brown, has visible mold, or excessive stems.
2. Smell: Quality cannabis should have a strong, pleasant aroma. If it smells musty or like hay, it's probably not great.
3. Feel: When you squeeze a bud gently, it should be slightly springy, not crumbly or too wet.
4. Ask questions: Don't be shy about asking your budtender about the product. Where was it grown? How was it cured? A good dispensary will be happy to provide this info.

Now, let's talk limits.

While cannabis is legal in Thailand, there are still restrictions on how much you can buy and possess:

- You can possess cannabis flower for personal use, but there's no clearly defined limit. A good rule of thumb is to keep it under 10 grams to be safe.

- For extracts containing more than 0.2% THC, the possession limit is 10 ml or less.

It's also worth noting that while you can buy cannabis in Phuket, you can't legally take it out of Thailand.

So don't get any bright ideas about smuggling some home in your suitcase!

Lastly, a word on ethics.

The cannabis industry in Phuket is still pretty new, and like any rapidly growing market, there are concerns about sustainability and fair practices.

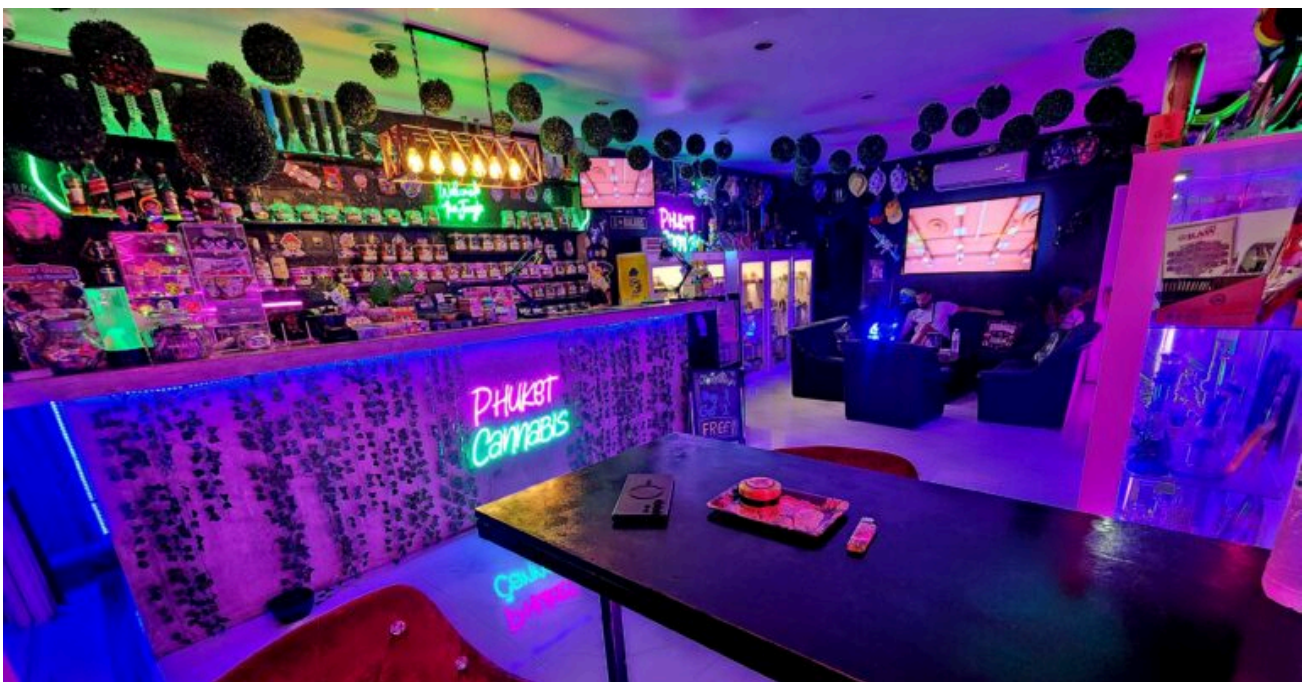

If you're into ethical consumption, don't be afraid to ask dispensaries about their sourcing practices.

Many are proud to work with local growers and will be happy to tell you about it.

So there you have it – your Phuket Weed Guide 2024 to buying cannabis in Phuket!

Remember to always consume responsibly, respect local laws and customs, and never, ever drive under the influence.

Happy shopping, and enjoy your Phuket cannabis experience!

Phuket Weed Guide 2024: Cannabis Tourism in Phuket

Welcome to the fun part, folks!

Cannabis tourism in Phuket has exploded since legalization, and in 2024, it's become a major draw for visitors from around the globe.

Whether you're a dedicated cannasseur or just cannabis-curious, Phuket's got something for everyone.

Let's dive into what you can expect from the island's thriving weed tourism scene.

First up, let's talk about where to stay.

Cannabis-friendly accommodations have been popping up all over Phuket like, well, weeds!

These range from budget-friendly hostels to luxury resorts.

Here are a few options to consider:

1. The Green Room Hostel (<https://phukethightimes.com/stores/greenroom-patong-cannabis-dispensary-lounge/>) in Patong: This place is perfect for backpackers looking to meet other cannabis enthusiasts. They've got a communal smoking area on the roof with a killer view of the sunset.
2. Canna Cove Resort (<https://thecovephuket.com/>) in Kata: A mid-range option that offers private bungalows, each with its own herb garden where you can grow a couple of plants (with proper registration, of course).
3. High Times Hotel in Karon (<https://phukethightimes.com/stores/green-lantern-karon/>): This luxury option goes all out with cannabis-themed decor, on-site budtenders, and even cannabis massage treatments at their spa.

Remember, while these places are cannabis-friendly, you'll still need to follow their specific rules about where you can and can't smoke.

Now, onto the fun stuff – weed-related activities and experiences.

Phuket's entrepreneurs have gotten creative, and there's no shortage of cool things to do:

1. Cannabis Cooking Classes (<https://thailandcannabistours.com/tour/cannabis-infused-cooking-class-pattaya-half-day/>): Learn how to make your own edibles or infuse traditional Thai dishes with cannabis. "Baked in Bangkok" offers a popular class where you'll whip up THC-infused tom yum soup and green curry.
2. Ganja Yoga (<https://www.ganjayoga.com/>): Start your day with a mellow, cannabis-enhanced yoga session on the beach. "High Asana" runs classes every morning at Nai Harn Beach.

3. Cannabis Farm Tours (<https://juicybudsthailand.com/ultimate-phuket-cannabis-tourism-guide-2024/>): Take a trip to the highlands of Phuket and visit a cannabis farm. You'll learn about cultivation techniques and maybe even get to help harvest some buds.
4. Puff and Paint Nights: Get in touch with your inner artist at one of the many cannabis-friendly painting classes around the island. "Van Gogh and Vape" in Phuket Town is a local favorite.
5. Cannabis Spa Treatments: Many spas now offer cannabis-infused massages and treatments. The "Thai High Spa" in Chalong is known for its CBD oil massages that'll leave you feeling utterly blissed out.
6. Smoke and Sail: Several boat tour companies now offer cannabis-friendly cruises around Phang Nga Bay. Just imagine puffing on a joint while floating past those stunning limestone cliffs!

Phuket's also become home to some pretty awesome cannabis events and festivals.

Here are a few to mark on your calendar:

1. Phuket Cannabis Cup (April): This annual event showcases the best strains grown on the island. There's live music, food stalls, and of course, plenty of sampling opportunities.
2. Thai Stick Revival Festival (August): Celebrating the return of the legendary Thai Stick, this festival is a must for cannabis history buffs.
3. Canna-Wellness Retreat (November): A week-long event focusing on the medical and wellness applications of cannabis, featuring workshops, yoga sessions, and expert speakers.

Now, a word on etiquette and cultural considerations.

While cannabis is legal, it's still a new thing for many locals, and Thailand in general has some conservative elements.

Here are a few tips to keep in mind:

1. Don't smoke in public spaces. Stick to designated areas or private properties where it's allowed.
2. Be discreet. While you can legally buy and possess cannabis, flaunting it around might not be appreciated by everyone.
3. Respect religious sites. It should go without saying, but don't consume cannabis near temples or other sacred places.
4. Don't try to take cannabis out of the country. It's legal in Thailand, but that doesn't mean you can take it home with you.
5. Be mindful of the smell. Not everyone appreciates the aroma of cannabis, so be considerate, especially in shared spaces.

6. Tip your budtenders and guides. It's not mandatory, but it's appreciated, especially if they've been particularly helpful.

7. Support local businesses. Try to buy from Thai-owned dispensaries and join tours run by locals to help support the community.

Lastly, remember that while you're here to have fun, you're also an ambassador for cannabis tourism.

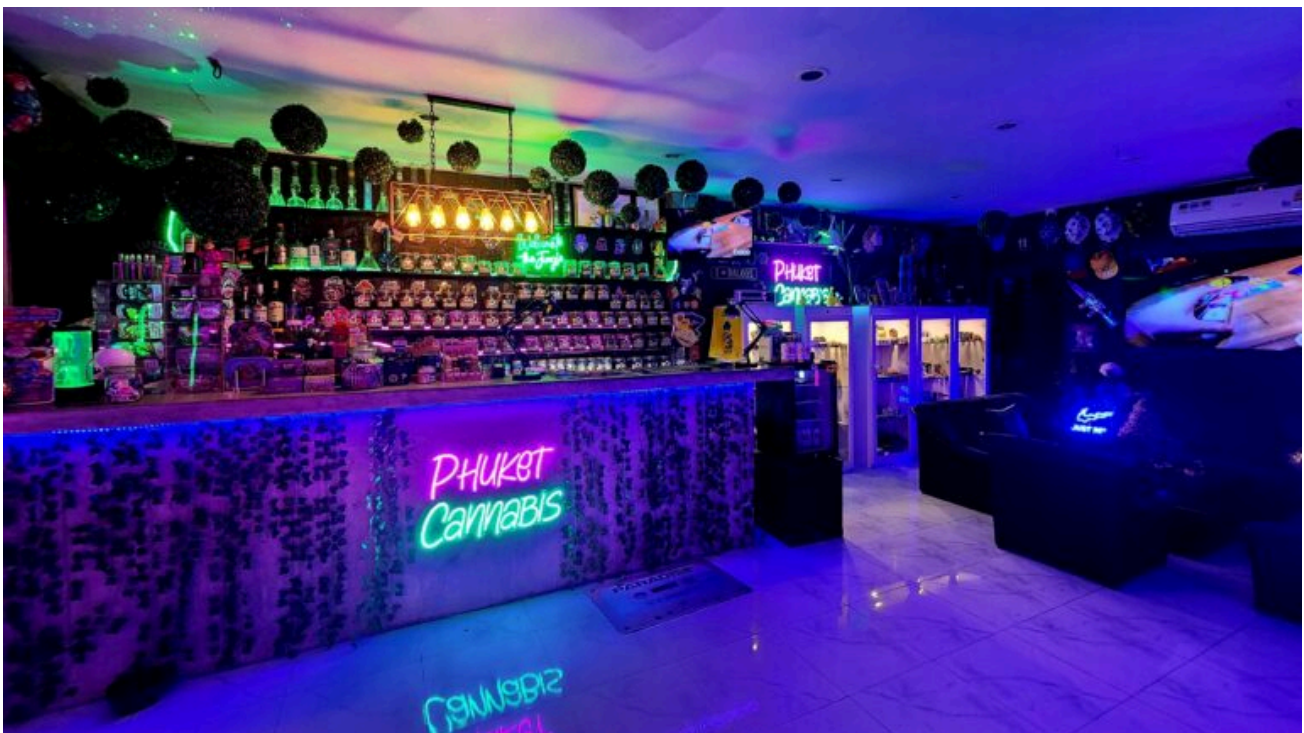

Being respectful and responsible helps ensure that this industry can continue to grow and thrive in Phuket.

There's your Phuket Weed Guide 2024 to cannabis tourism in Phuket!

From weed-friendly hotels to unique experiences and events, there's no shortage of ways to enjoy the island's cannabis scene.

Just remember to stay safe, be respectful, and most importantly, have a blast!

After all, they don't call Thailand the Land of Smiles for nothing – especially now that there's legal weed involved!

Medical Cannabis in Phuket

Alright, let's switch gears a bit and talk about the more serious side of cannabis – its medical applications now in the Phuket Weed Guide 2024!

Thailand was actually one of the first Southeast Asian countries to legalize medical cannabis, and Phuket has become a hotspot for cannabis-based treatments.

Whether you're a local or a medical tourist, here's what you need to know about medical cannabis in Phuket in 2024.

First off, what conditions can be treated with medical cannabis in Thailand?

The list has expanded since the initial legalization, and now includes:

1. Chronic pain
2. Epilepsy
3. Multiple sclerosis
4. Chemotherapy-induced nausea and vomiting
5. Parkinson's disease
6. Alzheimer's disease
7. Anxiety and depression
8. Insomnia
9. Migraines
10. PTSD

This list isn't exhaustive, and doctors can prescribe cannabis for other conditions if they believe it could be beneficial.

Now, how do you go about getting medical cannabis in Phuket?

It's not as complicated as you might think, but there are a few steps:

1. Book an appointment with a licensed cannabis clinic. There are several in Phuket now, including the "Green Leaf Clinic" in Phuket Town and "CannaWell" in Patong.
2. Bring any relevant medical records to your appointment. This helps the doctor understand your condition better.
3. During your consultation, the doctor will assess your condition and decide if cannabis could be a suitable treatment.
4. If approved, you'll receive a medical cannabis card. This isn't strictly necessary for buying cannabis anymore, but it can be helpful, especially if you need specific medical strains or products.
5. The doctor will provide a prescription detailing the type of cannabis product and dosage recommended for your condition.

One cool thing about medical cannabis in Phuket is that you're not limited to just one form of the drug.

Depending on your condition and preferences, you might be prescribed:

- CBD oil
- THC oil

- Cannabis flower for vaporizing
- Cannabis capsules
- Topical cannabis creams
- Suppositories (yep, you read that right – they’re great for certain digestive issues)

Now, let’s talk about where to get your medicine.

While you can buy cannabis products at regular dispensaries, there are also specialized medical cannabis dispensaries in Phuket.

These places often have a wider range of medical-grade products and staff who are knowledgeable about using cannabis for various health conditions.

A few reputable medical cannabis dispensaries in Phuket include:

1. “PharmaCanna” in Chalong: Known for their wide range of CBD products.
2. “MedLeaf (<https://www.theweedythings.com/blog/high-times-in-patong-unraveling-the-best-weed-spots-in-patong/>)” near Phuket International Hospital: They specialize in cannabis oils and tinctures.
3. “Thai Green Health” in Kathu: Offers a variety of medical-grade cannabis flowers.

Remember, prices for medical cannabis can vary, but many find it more affordable than traditional pharmaceuticals.

Some insurance plans have even started covering medical cannabis, so it’s worth checking with your provider.

Now, a word on the potential benefits and risks of medical cannabis use.

While many people find cannabis helpful for managing various conditions, it’s not a miracle cure-all.

Potential benefits include:

- Pain relief
- Reduced inflammation
- Improved sleep
- Decreased anxiety
- Appetite stimulation
- Nausea reduction

However, like any medicine, cannabis can have side effects.

These might include:

- Dry mouth
- Dizziness
- Increased heart rate
- Short-term memory issues
- For some, increased anxiety

It's crucial to work closely with your doctor to find the right dosage and product for you.

Start low and go slow is always a good motto when it comes to medical cannabis.

One exciting development in Phuket's medical cannabis scene is the rise of cannabis wellness retreats.

These programs combine traditional Thai healing practices with cannabis therapies.

Places like the "Cannabliss Retreat Center (<https://www.facebook.com/cannablissretreats/>)" in the north of the island offer week-long programs that include cannabis-assisted meditation, yoga, massage, and nutritional counseling.

For those interested in the science behind medical cannabis, Phuket is becoming a hub for research too.

The "Phuket Cannabis Research Institute" opened its doors in 2023 and is conducting studies on everything from new cannabis-based medications to the impact of cannabis tourism on public health.

Lastly, if you're a foreign visitor seeking medical cannabis in Phuket, you'll be glad to know that many clinics cater to international patients.

They often have English-speaking staff and can help navigate any cultural or language barriers.

Just remember, while you can use your medical cannabis in Thailand, you can't take it home with you if it's not legal in your home country.

So there you have it – your guide to medical cannabis in Phuket!

Whether you're managing a chronic condition or just interested in the wellness aspects of cannabis, Phuket's medical cannabis scene has got you covered.

Remember, always consult with a qualified healthcare professional before starting any new treatment regimen.

Here's to your health!

Phuket Weed Guide 2024: Responsible Use and Safety

Alright, folks, we've covered a lot of ground, but before we wrap up this guide, let's talk about something super important: using cannabis responsibly and safely in Phuket.

Yeah, I know, it might not be the most exciting topic, but trust me, it's crucial for ensuring you have a good time and stay on the right side of the law.

First up, let's talk about dosage and potency.

If you're new to cannabis or trying a new product, the golden rule is "start low and go slow."

Thai cannabis, especially some of the local strains, can be pretty potent.

Here are some tips:

1. For edibles, start with 5mg THC or less. Wait at least two hours before taking more. Edibles can take a while to kick in, and it's easy to overdo it if you're impatient.
2. If you're smoking or vaping, take one puff and wait 15 minutes to see how you feel before having more.
3. For oils or tinctures, start with the lowest recommended dose on the packaging.

Remember, you can always take more, but you can't un-take what you've already consumed!

Now, let's chat about potential side effects and how to manage them.

While cannabis is generally considered safe, it can cause some unwanted effects, especially if you overdo it.

Here's what to watch out for and how to handle it:

1. Anxiety or paranoia: If you start feeling anxious, try some deep breathing exercises. Remind yourself that the feeling is temporary and will pass. CBD can also help counteract THC-induced anxiety.
2. Dizziness: Sit or lie down, close your eyes, and take slow, deep breaths. Stay hydrated.
3. Rapid heartbeat: Again, try to relax. If it persists or you're worried, don't hesitate to seek medical help.
4. Nausea: Ginger tea can help. Also, try lying down in a dark, quiet room.
5. "Greening out" (cannabis overconsumption): If you or a friend have consumed too much, stay calm. Find a quiet, safe space, hydrate, and rest. If symptoms are severe, don't hesitate to call for medical help.

Next, let's talk about cannabis and driving.

I'm going to make this really simple: DON'T DO IT.

It's illegal and dangerous.

In Thailand, driving under the influence of cannabis can result in hefty fines, license suspension, or even jail time.

Plus, you're putting yourself and others at risk.

If you're planning on consuming cannabis, plan ahead for transportation.

Luckily, Phuket has plenty of taxis and ride-sharing services.

For all you first-time users out there, here are some extra tips:

1. Choose a comfortable, safe environment for your first time.
2. Have a sober friend with you if possible.

3. Have some snacks and water on hand.
4. Don't mix cannabis with alcohol or other drugs, especially your first time.
5. Don't feel pressured to consume more than you're comfortable with.

Now, let's talk about storing your cannabis safely.

Keep it in a cool, dry place out of direct sunlight.

If you've got kids or pets around, make sure it's stored somewhere they can't access.

Many dispensaries provide child-proof packaging, but it's always good to take extra precautions.

It's also worth mentioning that while cannabis is legal in Thailand, social attitudes are still evolving.

Be respectful of those around you.

Not everyone appreciates the smell of cannabis, so be mindful of where you're consuming.

If you're looking for more information or support, there are resources available.

The "Thai Cannabis Institute" has a wealth of information on their website, and many dispensaries offer educational materials.

Don't be afraid to ask questions – budtenders and medical professionals in the cannabis industry are usually more than happy to provide information.

Lastly, remember that cannabis affects everyone differently.

What works for your friend might not work the same way for you.

Listen to your body, know your limits, and always prioritize your health and safety.

Before we wrap up, I want to give a quick shout-out to Phuket Cannabis Patong (<https://www.patong-cannabis.com/mystery-cali-weed/>).

They're not just a dispensary, but a great resource for cannabis education in Phuket.

Their knowledgeable staff is always ready to answer questions about responsible use, and they even host weekly “Cannabis 101 (<https://www.leafly.com/news/cannabis-101>)” workshops for beginners.

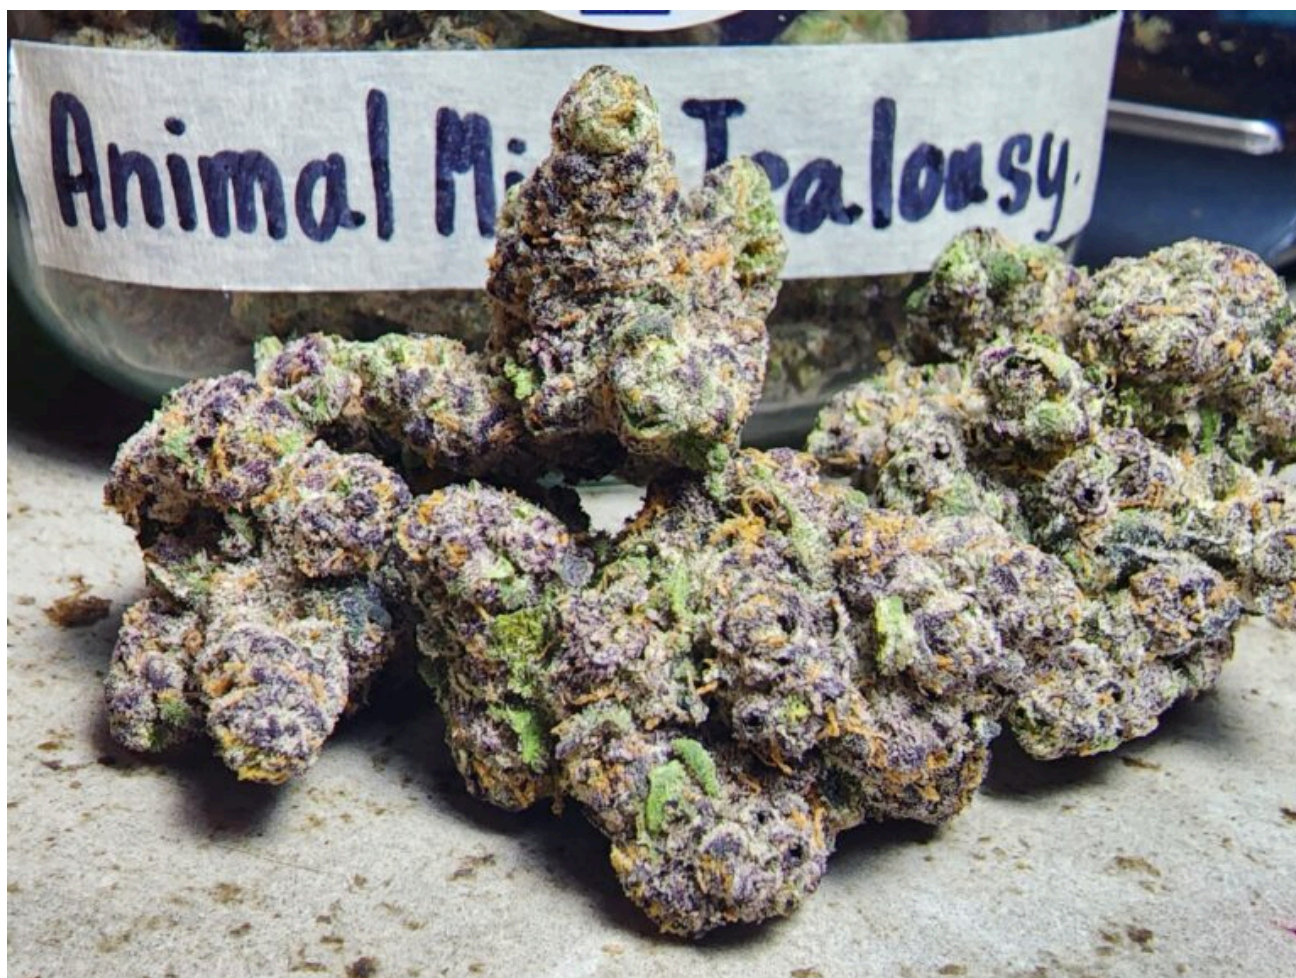

Whether you’re a first-timer or an experienced user, they’re definitely worth checking out for quality products and solid advice.
